Carverdale residents combat proposed landfill expansion

BY DANICA LLOYD

Victor Hebert said his family first came to the Carverdale area in the 1940s, and many of his neighbors have owned property there for generations.

This summer, dozens of those neighbors gathered in protest of a landfill expansion proposed just across the street from Hebert's home. Residents stood at the corner of Gessner and Tanner roads chanting "No more dumping; Carverdale matters."

"As long as that place is over there, that means the value of these homes is almost at zero," Hebert said.

Waste Management of Texas filed a permit amendment application in February to expand Hawthorn Park Landfill, which has been in operation for decades, according to Director of Public Affairs Lisa Doughty. She said the permit review process has no set timeline.

If the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality approves the permit, the landfill's disposal area would increase by 32%, and its elevation limits could grow up to 63% higher. Waste Management officials said these steps would extend the site's life by at least 46 years.

"The skyline out here will be dominated by trash," Hebert said. "When you wake up in the morning, [you see] the trash and the stench that goes along with it. Construction debris over time, it stinks; it smells; it fills

Trail connectivity progresses near Cypress Creek

Two upcoming projects will improve trail connectivity in Cy-Fair as part of the Cypress Creek Greenway Project, a trail system that will eventually extend more than 40 miles from west of Hwy. 290 to the point where Cypress Creek joins Spring Creek.

A project broke ground in September at the Kickerillo-Mischer Preserve, and a nearby municipal utility district is working to fill a gap between two stretches of trails.

Jim Robertson, chair of the Cypress Creek Greenway Project, said the group provides a vision for the greenway and coordinates with local MUDs and county parks departments. Officials have been using a master plan completed in 2015 as a guide for the trail systems in the Cypress Creek and Hwy. 249 area, he said.

“At that time, we recognized that there were a lot of disconnected parks and trails being developed in the area, and the idea was to put together a vision as to how those could be connected,” he said. “Piece by piece, those connections are coming together.”

Ultimately once these two projects are completed, neighborhoods east of the Kickerillo-Mischer Preserve will have access to trails that extend northwest to Telge Road. The next phase of the Faulkey Gully trail construction will fill in the gaps between the existing trails there and the Harris County Municipal Utility District No. 5 trails that are currently under construction.

These trails will connect hundreds of acres of parks along the greenway, including Cypress Park, Russ Poppe Family Park, 100 Acre Wood Preserve and Kickerillo-Mischer Preserve, Robertson said.

Robertson said his team has been in contact with Precinct 3 Commissioner Tom Ramsey's office as they create a park and trail master plan. He said eventually, the Cypress Creek trail system could also connect the master-planned communities in that area, such as Bridgeland, Cypress Creek Lakes, BlackHorse Ranch and Coles Crossing.

Kickerillo-Mischer Preserve

Two concrete pedestrian under-crossings will be added on the north and south side of Cypress Creek and Hwy. 249, according to Dennis Johnston, Harris County Precinct 4 parks director. The north trail will connect the preserve to the SpringHill Suites hotel on the west side of Hwy. 249, and the south trail will link the pond behind the YMCA east to the park next to Willie's Grill & Ice House.

Construction on the $1.2 million project is expected to be completed by the first quarter of 2022, Johnston said. Subsequent phases of construction will include extending the trail over to the bridge next to the Kickerillo-Mischer Preserve office on the south side and eventually west to Faulkey Gully on the north side of Cypress Creek.

“Tens of thousands of residents will eventually benefit in this area by having connectivity to parks, trails, offices, schools, businesses, shopping and restaurants,” Johnston said.

Faulkey Gully trails

Mark Szyman, director of the Faulkey Gully MUD in Cypress, said he is working to complete a trail project started about 30 years ago.

The first two phases of the Faulkey Gully Hike and Bike Trail span 1.9 miles from Lakewood Forest Drive to Guernsey Road and were completed in the mid-90s under the Faulkey Gully Greenway Association, a nonprofit formed among four MUDs—Faulkey Gully, Malcomson Road, Harris County MUD 18 and Lakewood Forest.

Szyman said he hopes construction will resume in early 2022. Malcomson Road MUD has agreed to contribute to the estimated $1.3 million cost of construction materials, but he said Lakewood Forest MUD and Harris County MUD 18 have chosen not to participate in the third phase.

Rather than raising the property tax rate to cover costs, Faulkey Gully MUD is asking residents to pay a voluntary $5 monthly fee starting in January.

Harris County would be responsible for building and maintaining the new 2 miles of trails, Szyman said.

“Other than providing a safe place for people to walk, ride their bikes or run, it's going to connect in a lot of communities, No. 1, and No. 2, it'll help raise property values,” Szyman said.

Harris County ESD 9 approves $78 million budget for FY 2021-22

BY EMILY JAROSZEWSKI

Harris County Emergency Services District No. 9, which manages the Cy-Fair Fire Department, unanimously approved a $78.1 million budget for fiscal year 2021-22 at an Aug. 26 meeting. This is an increase from the $56.9 million budget from fiscal year 2020-21 and includes expenses such as emergency medical services costs, human resources and facility maintenance.

The district expects to receive $74.1 million in revenue in FY 2021-22 with about $27.1 million coming from local property taxes and $40.7 million coming from sales taxes. Other funding sources include interest on investments, insurance proceeds, the Southeast Texas Regional Advisory Council and various donations.

The FY 2021-22 capital expenditures budget came out to about $28.4 million and will fund chief and staff vehicles, medic vehicles and station modifications. This funding will support the rebuilding and relocations of Station 1 as well as work on stations 6, 10 and 14.

Station 1 was previously located at 9202 Rodney Ray Blvd., Houston, and will be moved to 8520 Country View Drive, Houston. Construction is estimated to be complete by the second quarter of 2022. Station 6 will be relocated to 12344 W. Little York Road, Houston, from 6404 N. Eldridge Parkway, Houston.

Costs and timelines for stations 10 and 14 are still undetermined, but Cy-Fair Fire Department officials said the department will spend $2 million to acquire land for the future Station 14. ESD 9 officials previously told Community Impact Newspaper that long-term plans involved bringing the total number of stations up to 22.

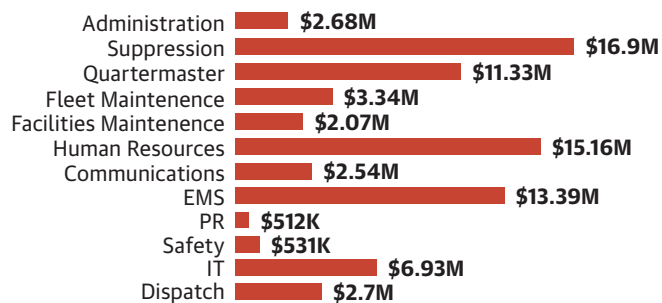

Commissioners also approved a FY 2021-22 property tax rate of $0.057628 per $100 valuation at the Sept. 23 meeting. District Counselor Ira Coveler said this is the highest rate the board could adopt without requiring voter approval, but it is still a decrease from the FY 2020-21 rate of $0.059492 per $100 valuation.

Due to a rise in the district's tax base, the lower tax rate is expected to bring in $1.9 million more in revenue over the previous year.

COVERING COSTS

A $78.1 million general fund budget was approved for fiscal year 2021-22. This will fund day-to-day operations. Additionally, a $28.4 million capital expenditures budget will fund department vehicles and station modifications.

Cy-Fair ISD board lowers local property tax rate for FY 2021-22

BY DANICA LLOYD

The Cy-Fair ISD board of trustees unanimously approved a property tax rate of $1.3392 per $100 valuation for fiscal year 2021-22 at its Sept. 13 meeting—a decrease from $1.3555 per $100 valuation in fiscal year 2020-21.

House Bill 3, passed in 2019, requires school districts to lower their tax rates when they see a 2.5% or higher increase in property values year over year. CFISD's tax rate compression is based on a 6% increase in property values, CFISD Chief Financial Officer Karen Smith said.

The no-new-revenue tax rate, or the rate that would produce the same amount of revenue as the previous year, would have been $1.3156. Because the final rate was higher than the no-new-revenue rate, HB 3 requires the board to adopt its tax rate using language that states it is increasing the rate.

In addition to this required phrase, CFISD's board last year added language to the motion and resolution clarifying the tax rate itself was decreasing year over year. That same language was included in this year's resolution.

"I would not vote to approve this without that addition to the resolution because I find it offensive that the state requires us to make a statement that we are increasing our tax rate when we are in effect decreasing it," trustee Julie Hinaman said.

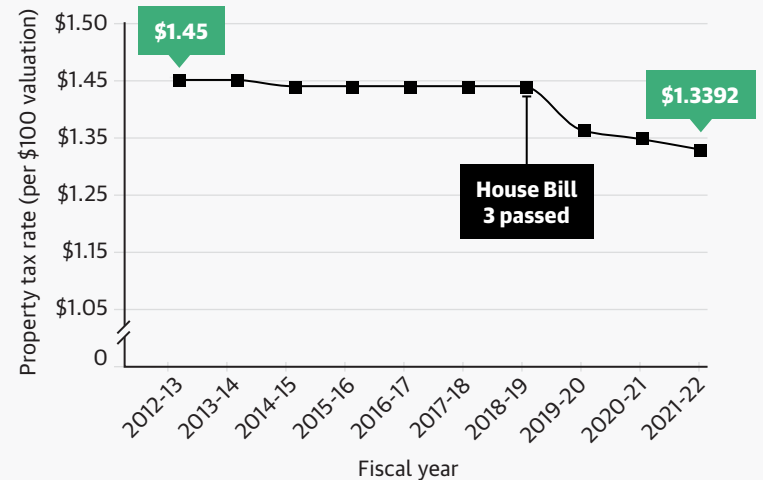

Hinaman went on to explain how the state "penalizes" the district for offering property tax relief to local residents through an optional 20% homestead exemption, which saves the average homeowner about $685 annually, according to the district.

Smith confirmed the district loses out on about $118 million in revenue through local property tax exemptions and an additional $17 million in state aid because the state does not account for the homestead exemption when calculating its share of funding for public schools.

The board approved a $1.09 billion budget for FY 2021-22 in June, which included an $88.5 million deficit. At the time, officials projected 41.5% of their revenue would come from the state while 56.5% would come from local property taxes.

Despite challenges, Superintendent

Mark Henry expressed confidence in the state of the district's finances.

"Even through a worldwide pandemic where we had a lot of extra expenses, Cy-Fair ISD was able to function with a balanced budget," Henry said.

Harris County commissioners expected to lower property tax rate

BY EMILY LINCKE

HARRIS COUNTY On average, Harris County homeowners may see lower tax rates in the next year, but it will come at the cost of $17 million in funding for the county's hospital district, according to Harris County Administrator David Berry.

At a Sept. 21 public hearing, Harris County Commissioners Court voted unanimously to propose a $0.58135 overall total county tax rate for the upcoming fiscal year, down from the county's overall fiscal year 2020-21 rate of $0.5992.

However, the proposed total tax rate for the Harris County Hospital District, or Harris Health System, is $0.16221. This rate would provide less funding for the hospital district in the upcoming fiscal year than commissioners budgeted for earlier this year, Berry said.

"You're deep in hell to be poor in terms of health care, in Harris County," Precinct 1 Commissioner Rodney Ellis said. "Although I know, for homeowners, they will appreciate the [tax reduction] ... those people who rent, which unfortunately is far too many here, won't get this."

While Precinct 4 Commissioner Jack Cagle and Precinct 3 Commissioner Tom Ramsey voted against the previously proposed tax rates at a Sept. 14 meeting, the commissioners accepted the new proposal as a compromise.

"If you are a homeowner, with a $100,000 home, and last year you paid $599.20, with this proposal ... you'll pay $581.35," Cagle said. "In other words, your bill will not go up. ... You will pay less in your taxes, on average. Some homes will be a little bit different because of where they were in the [appraisal district zone], and some homes will be a little bit less."

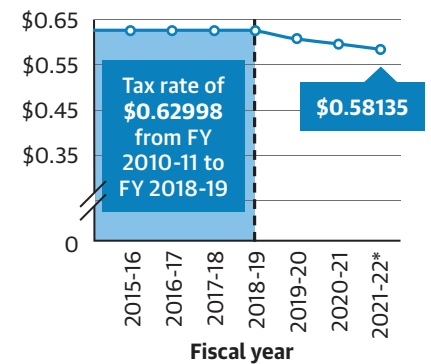

Cutting the tax rates could impede the care the Harris Health System provides for 300,000 county residents annually, Harris Health System President Dr. Esmaeil Porsa said. The system includes two full-service hospitals, 18 community health centers and five school-based clinics.

"While [Harris Health System's hospitals] comprise only 6.6% of all hospital beds in Harris County, we provide over 16% of all Harris County's Medicaid admissions and more than 21% of all uninsured admissions in Harris County," Porsa said. "I'm asking for your support for an appropriate tax rate for the hospital district, so that we can continue to meet our ongoing obligations to the residents of Harris County."

As of press time Sept. 24, another public hearing for locals to discuss the proposed tax rates was scheduled for Sept. 28, the same day as the commissioners' regularly scheduled meeting. A date had not been set for when commissioners will vote to adopt a set of tax rates, but they must do so before Oct. 15, Harris County Judge Lina Hidalgo said.

Preliminary redistricting discussions kick off

BY DANICA LLOYD

HARRIS COUNTY As Harris County's population has grown 15.6% in the past 10 years, according to the 2020 census, county commissioners convened Aug. 31 to review the redistricting process. Redistricting is the process of redrawing the boundaries for representation in states and local jurisdictions and is required after every decennial census.

The recently released 2020 U.S. census data revealed not only had Harris County's population grown to 4.7 million, but that the population distribution among the county's four commissioner precincts had shifted in the last decade.

When the maps were last redrawn in 2011, each precinct had just over 1 million residents; the county's overall population was about 4.1 million as of the 2010 census.

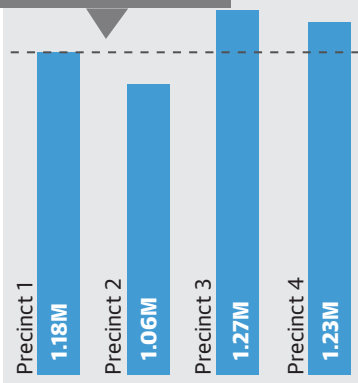

Matt Angle, the county's mapping consultant, said based on the 2020 census, each precinct should have 1.18 million residents. The U.S. Constitution prohibits a deviation of more than 10% from that target.

NUMBER TO KNOW

$30M Harris County opened the application process for a new $30 million relief program Sept. 20. Eligible small businesses affected by the COVID-19 pandemic can apply for grants ranging from $5,000-$25,000. The program is subsidized by the American Rescue Plan Act Local Fiscal Recovery Funds. Applications close Oct. 4 at 5:30 p.m.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

JERSEY VILLAGE At the Sept. 20 City Council meeting, Jersey Village Mayor Bobby Warren presented a proclamation inviting residents to participate in the 38th annual National Night Out on Oct. 5. The national event is designed to promote positive relationships between neighbors and local law enforcement officers and ultimately reduce crime, drugs and violence, Warren said. Learn more at www.natw.org

HARRIS COUNTY A nearly $11 million contract with Elevate Strategies, a firm that was scheduled to conduct community outreach encouraging county residents to get vaccinated against COVID-19, was terminated with unanimous approval at the Sept. 14 Harris County Commissioners Court meeting. The contract would have entailed a full year of targeted community vaccine outreach, engaging county residents via calls, texts, social media, face-to-face canvassing and direct mail, focusing on the neighborhoods hit hardest by COVID-19. The contract was approved earlier this year and started in late July, but Precinct 3 Commissioner Tom Ramsey shared concerns that he said had come up since, including that certain details of the process were not communicated to him. Harris County Judge Lina Hidalgo said no part of this contract approval process differed from the court's standard protocol.

HARRIS COUNTY As of Sept. 21, 75% of Harris County's age 12-and-older population had received at least one dose of the COVID-19 vaccine, and 63.6% were fully vaccinated. Comparatively, 71% of the state's 12-and-older population had received at least one dose, and 60.5% were fully vaccinated.

EXPLAINING SCHOOL FINANCES

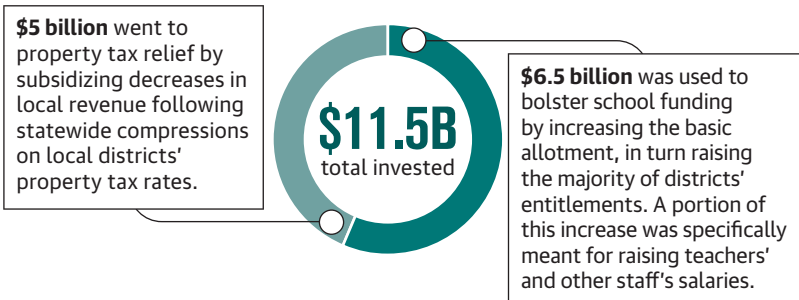

In Texas' 86th Legislature in 2019, lawmakers approved House Bill 3, a comprehensive school finance reform that went into effect Sept. 1, 2019. Among HB 3's changes was a compression on property tax rates: If property values rise statewide or locally, districts must reduce their tax rate to help ease the burden on local property owners.

COMPONENTS OF HOUSE BILL 3

In its first two years, HB 3 invested $11.5 billion into public school finance reform.

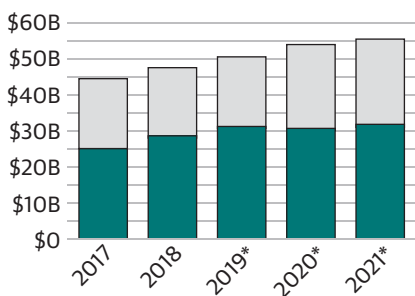

STATE VS. LOCAL SHARE

Texas' public school system is funded largely by state aid and local property tax revenue. Prior to HB 3, the local share grew as property values increased statewide, but with the legislation, the state now takes on a larger portion year over year.

COVID-19'S EFFECT ON SCHOOL FUNDING

Most districts were held harmless by the state for any enrollment changes during the pandemic, so funding entitlements were not negatively affected by attendance changes. Federal funding gave three rounds of aid to address pandemic-related disruptions. The packages amounted to $19.2 billion, of which:

CY-FAIR ISD PROPERTY TAX RATES

Prior to HB 3, property tax rates for Cy-Fair ISD changed little year over year; the district's M&O tax rate stayed at $1.04 per $100 valuation from 2008-09 through 2017-18. During this time, local revenue grew from increasing property values. Under HB 3, growth could compress M&O rates with the goal of easing taxpayers' burden.

Candidate did not submit responses by press time

Why are you running for the Cy-Fair ISD board of trustees?

I feel passionate that parents should be at the forefront in the decision-making process. The board is responsible for decisions that affect all children. Parents should have an opportunity to feel heard and their values represented during these major decisions. As a former educator [and] the wife of an educator [who has] a child in CFISD, I feel I can offer a unique perspective.

I am running to serve you on the CFISD school board to increase voice, choice and values. I will seek input from parents and the community to make sure your voices are heard. One size does not fit all. I will fight for choice in educational options in our school system. As a woman of faith and values, I will fight to protect religious freedom and be a watchdog against dangerous ideologies that divide us.

The current state of our schools in relation to the national political climate have seeped into the safety and education of our children. This adversely affects individuals and families, which, in turn, affects communities. As the mother of six, two with special needs, I have a need to protect my family. As a family counselor, I have an obligation to advocate for children, teachers and families.

I am running for re-election for Position 5 because of my strong passion and commitment to public schools and how they shape the lives of children for success. I love this community, I love CFISD, and I love serving the students and employees of this great district. Serving CFISD is ministry on a broader scale to me beyond my family and church.

To be a voice for children and the parents of those children that attend CFISD grades K-12 currently and in the near future. I am willing to serve and have the desire to assist with challenges that I recognize exist today and the foreseeable future within CFISD.

What does CFISD's motto "Opportunity for All" mean to you?

Public schools cannot turn students away based on academic performance, income level or disability. We must ensure that every student has the same opportunity for a quality education, regardless of their personal or financial considerations. Education is the cornerstone of improvement for each child and determines their ability to become a productive member of society.

"Opportunity for All" means each student receives an individually rigorous and personally meaningful education, aligned with their strengths and goals, that prepares them for college, career and life. I will support the mission by setting appropriate district goals and holding the administration accountable for reaching these goals.

My interpretation is one of equality, not equity, as the basis for children's success. The tenets within ideological programming, such as those which include implicit bias, detract from positive and engaging learning experiences. I will support the mission to nurture an atmosphere of equality through refocused academic goals based on the individual needs of each student.

This motto "Opportunity for All" truly resonates with me. I believe that every child can learn and be given an equal opportunity in CFISD. I am fully committed to providing classrooms where all children, regardless of race, gender, ethnicity, disability, religion, language, sexual orientation or socio-economic status, can thrive to the best of their ability.

"Opportunity for All," to me, is promoting an environment of inclusivity and respect for fellow students and staff. Students should understand if they are willing to put in the work and willing to make sacrifices, success can be achieved no matter their background. Our kids should be influenced to view challenges as opportunities to achieve greatness.

What are the most significant challenges facing the district?

CFISD is growing at a rapid pace and will continue to. As a district, we need to be good stewards of tax dollars through comprehensive strategic planning. We must also continue to work to ensure CFISD maintains high academic standards for all students. The focus needs to be on core curriculum while leaving political opinions out of the classroom.

The most significant challenge is making up for learning loss that occurred during the pandemic. This is addressed by empowering teachers with the time, flexibility and freedom to meet the needs of each child they serve. Another issue is that parents have lost trust in their school board to monitor and protect the hearts and minds of our children from indoctrination and division.

Our students have already missed out on so much due to the pandemic. Children who struggle most in academics, those with special needs, and those with family and financial hardships, often suffer the steepest decline in academic achievement. Let's [re-establish] the core tenets of education and [rebuild] trust and respect between parents and educators.

The most significant challenge we face at present is COVID-19 and its variants. At any moment, we could have teachers or students infected with it and the possibility of the virus spreading with more sickness and regrettably death could occur. This would hinder our effort of providing a safe work and learning environment. Safety must be our priority.

The biggest challenges are parents and staff not having an opportunity to give feedback. I would encourage the school board to give parents more than just two minutes to be heard. CFISD currently has members on staff that are afraid to give feedback out of fear of retribution. Inclusivity shouldn't be just limited to the student body, and feedback should be welcomed without fear.

Why are you running for the Cy-Fair ISD board of trustees?

I am running because of my passion and calling to public service. I am a direct product of the district's amazing teachers who played a large role in my current success, nurturing my mind and shaping my character. I have the skills and drive to serve the community that served me. My own life experience taught me that teachers are the backbone of public education.

I am running to serve the community in which I was raised and where my wife and I chose to raise our children. I have been a part of a team that has guided our district through some difficult times and unprecedented growth. I want to continue to be a part of a team that expects excellence in education and provides an opportunity for every student to be successful.

To ensure the district continues to exceed expectations in student achievement. My role as a board member will be to listen to the community of CFISD, monitor success and review effectiveness of the district. The district will continue to grow and will need the succeeding generation of trustees to steer that next phase of growth.

I am running for school board because I have a kiddo in school and care about her future and her experience in school. It is important for every board member to have some vested interest in order to make decisions on the direction for their children. I also believe I have better ideas. We should have term limits for board members, and no trustee should be on the board for 20 or more years.

What does CFISD's motto "Opportunity for All" mean to you?

The district's motto means to me an opportunity for every student no matter your gender, religion, ethnicity, economic status and sexual orientation. CFISD cares about all its students and will do whatever [is] necessary for them to succeed. Our teachers, staff and administration have always gone above and beyond for our kids. I hope to soon build on progress that has already been made.

"Opportunity for All" means that we offer each of our students and employees the opportunities they need to be personally successful. It means that every student will have rigorous curriculum, first-class facilities, cutting-edge technology, and an abundance of extracurricular activities regardless of where they live in our district or what CFISD school they attend.

"Opportunity for All" means regardless of status, learning aptitude, influence, gender, race and many more, the district's emphasis is student achievement. We understand there will be obstacles, but our motivation is excellence above all.

The motto means every student is provided with the ability to achieve and perform to their full potential. We as a district should empower our teachers and staff to find innovative ways to reach out and help our students.

What are the most significant challenges facing the school district?

Classroom sizes, school safety and TRS insurance are the most significant challenges. I would address these issues by working with my fellow board members and the administration on a successful plan for each one of these issues. I would also include teachers, staff and the public and gain feedback on what would be the best course of action.

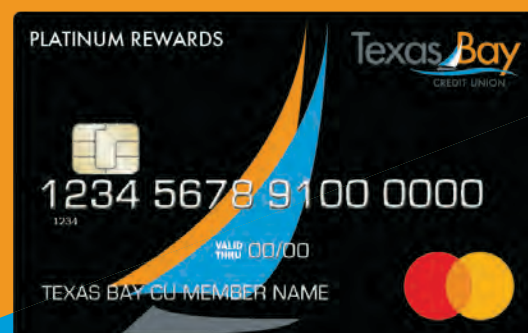

The most recent significant challenge has been COVID-19. We addressed this issue by [implementing] protocols to protect our staff and students. Another challenge is catching kids up from virtual instruction. By offering free summer programs and ongoing tutorials, CFISD is committed to helping those students catch up and succeed.

COVID-19, future variants and its impact on the learning environment. My initiative is utilizing the technological resources more in classrooms today to prepare students for managing time and becoming proficient computer users. We must establish key performance indicators that ensure student readiness for virtual learning.

Our teachers need more freedom in the classroom so they can empower and connect with students to inspire academic excellence and be passionate about teaching again. The current curriculum has been a real challenge for teachers and needs a top-to-bottom review with more flexibility at the class level.

Why are you running for the Cy-Fair ISD board of trustees?

I never want to see another unchallenged school board election. Increased transparency from the board, the administration and faculty. Student/parent/faculty/staff empowerment. To also encourage more qualified community members to become involved. To also represent the community with an open mind without talking down to or dismissing their concerns.

Candidate did not submit responses by press time

Have been able to consistently reduce taxes, protect the optional homestead exemption, authorize employee pay raises for nine-plus years and yet offer an exceptional educational experience that provides CTE courses and certificates, solid college-bound education and military service. I want to continue to advocate for this district, the students, faculty, administration and support staff.

I'm running for my daughter and other children who deserve an education focused on excellence in academics, athletics and the arts—not politics. I'm running to restore the trust of parents and accountability of the school board to their stakeholders—students, parents, taxpayers and staff. I've never witnessed such an evasive school board culture be successful over time.

What does CFISD's motto "Opportunity for All" mean to you?

If we can work toward continued and improved educational opportunities for all, we can improve our community, surrounding communities and those where our graduates move. I would support the overall mission/vision by using them as a measure by which we judge our success and set our goals. It is important to ask if our goals stay inline with our mission, vision and core values.

Candidate did not submit responses by press time

In my past 16 years as a trustee, we have become a more diverse district. I wholeheartedly support the shared curriculum that we have throughout our district. "Opportunity for All" simply means offering the opportunity for an excellent education, no matter the ZIP code. "Opportunity for All" celebrates our diversity, giving each student the opportunity to be a "global leader."

It means our students should have an opportunity to learn and take responsibility for maximizing that opportunity. I will support policies that focus on targeted programs to elevate students given their interests while building and creating problem-solving skills. We should have the opportunity to see the value from our taxes shown in our children's education quality.

What are the most significant challenges facing the school district?

A lot of [parents' recent] concerns seem to come from the need for more transparency and willingness to listen to concerns. I am willing to listen. A recent [concern] has been that the principles of critical race theory are finding their way into the schools' curriculum. If given the opportunity, I will be a voice against the principles espoused by CRT.

Candidate did not submit responses by press time

Finances and financial support from state and federal government will always be challenging. [That is addressed] by having open communication with our legislators. [Another challenge] is misinformation about public school education [and correcting] the false statements being shared. Open transparency and better understanding is paramount.

As a management consultant and past professional teacher, the work culture of our schools needs improvement. Students are ignoring teachers knowing the teacher has little ability to enforce participation. I will work with administration to form a plan to restore classroom discipline and support our teachers.

STATEWIDE PROPOSITIONS

LOOKING AT TEXAS
LEGISLATION ON THE BALLOT

COMPILED BY JISHNU NAIR

Voters will find eight propositions to amend the state constitution on the Nov. 2 ballot. Community Impact Newspaper spoke with Brandon Rottinghaus, the University of Houston's political science chair, to break down each proposition.

SOURCE: BRANDON ROTTINGHAUS, UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON/COMMUNITY IMPACT NEWSPAPER

RODEO RAFFLES

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 143

 FILED WITH SECRETARY
OF STATE ON MAY 25

What is it asking?

This proposition allows voters to decide whether charities for teams sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association or Women's Professional Rodeo Association can hold charitable raffles. According to Rottinghaus, these raffles need to be approved through a constitutional amendment to avoid falling foul of Texas' gambling laws.

PROPOSITION 3
RELIGIOUS SERVICES

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 27

 FILED WITH SECRETARY
OF STATE ON MAY 19

What is it asking?

This proposition will decide if state or local governments can limit religious services. Rottinghaus said this measure likely stems from COVID-19 mitigation efforts in 2020, when in-person religious services were limited in parts of Texas, such as Harris and Fort Bend counties.

PROPOSITION 5
JUDICIAL CONDUCT
LIMITATION

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 165

 PASSED SENATE
ON MAY 22

What is it asking?

Voters can decide whether the Texas Commission on Judicial Conduct, which is responsible for disciplining sitting judges, can extend its powers to candidates for the office of a judge in Texas, allowing the commission to conduct investigations, accept complaints and disqualify candidates not in office.

PROPOSITION 7
HOMESTEAD TAX
LIMITATION FOR SURVIVING
SPOUSES OF PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 125

 FILED WITH SECRETARY
OF STATE ON MAY 18

What is it asking?

This will determine whether surviving spouses of disabled people can receive limitations on the amount of property taxes they pay on their homesteads, provided they were age 55 or older when their partner died.

PROPOSITION 2
COUNTY INFRASTRUCTURE
BONDS FOR BLIGHTED AREAS

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 99

 FILED WITH SECRETARY
OF STATE ON JUNE 1

What is it asking?

Proposition 2 will determine whether counties can authorize bonds or notes to finance development in blighted or underserved areas. Rottinghaus described the amendment as a "shortcut" for county funding and said it could help urban counties going through a population boom.

JUDICIAL ELIGIBILITY
LIMITATION

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 47

 PASSED HOUSE
ON MAY 18

What is it asking?

This proposition would update requirements to serve on the Texas Supreme Court, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the Texas Appeals Court or as a district judge. It would require 10 years of service as a practicing lawyer or a combined 10 years of service in legal practice and as a judge of a state or county court.

ESSENTIAL CAREGIVERS

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 19

 FILED WITH SECRETARY
OF STATE ON JUNE 1

What is it asking?

Proposition 6 asks voters to decide whether residents of facilities such as nursing homes have the right to determine an essential caregiver who can visit without restrictions. Rottinghaus said this proposition also stemmed from COVID-19 mitigation measures affecting some care facilities.

PROPOSITION 8
HOMESTEAD TAX
LIMITATION FOR SURVIVING
SPOUSES OF ARMED SERVICE MEMBERS

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 27

 FILED WITH SECRETARY
OF STATE ON MAY 25

What is it asking?

Proposition 8 allows voters to decide whether surviving spouses of armed service members will be exempted from all or part of property taxes on homesteads, provided they were age 55 or older when their partner died.

IT'S NOT JUST FOR YOU SCHEDULE YOUR MAMMOGRAM

GETTING YOUR ANNUAL MAMMOGRAM IS STILL IMPORTANT

Putting off routine health screenings may put you at risk. One in eight women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime, but when caught early, it can be easier to treat. At Memorial Hermann, we make it convenient for you to get back on track with your annual mammogram. With online scheduling, 3-D mammography at all locations and Safe Wait™ enhanced safety measures, we are here for you so you can be there for those who matter most.

DON'T DELAY: YOUR MAMMOGRAM IS TOO IMPORTANT TO PUT OFF

When was your last screening mammogram? Has it been more than a year? Mammograms are easy to put off, especially during the pandemic, but sticking to an annual schedule is one of the most important things you can do for your health.

The physicians affiliated with Memorial Hermann Health System combine expertise with leading-edge technology to provide mammograms safely and conveniently in Cypress. If you have delayed your mammogram because of the pandemic, it's time to schedule your appointment. Your health is our top concern, and with our enhanced cleaning and safety precautions you can feel comfortable getting the care you need with peace of mind.

Who needs a mammogram?

The American College of Radiology recommends that women at average risk for breast cancer begin annual screening mammograms at age 40. Based on your individual health and family history, your healthcare provider may recommend a different schedule.

In addition to an annual screening mammogram, you may also need to be examined if you are experiencing certain breast symptoms. "Women should do self-breast exams every month," said Nan Garrett, MD, breast radiologist affiliated with Memorial Hermann Cypress Hospital. "It doesn't have to be perfect. You should examine and feel your breasts for any new changes like lumps, nipple discharge or skin that pulls or puckers."

What is a 3-D mammogram?

A 3-D mammogram, also called breast tomosynthesis, is an advanced imaging exam that combines several different breast images to create a three-dimensional view of the breast. This technology is available at all Memorial Hermann locations. "We know that 3-D mammograms provide us with more images of the breast so we can see into the various layers of breast tissue, which is especially helpful for women with dense breasts," said Dr. Garrett.

Don't put it off.

Breast cancer is the most common type of cancer among women in the United States. Early detection can save lives, and having an annual screening mammogram can help identify problems sooner, when treatments are most successful. "We've learned the importance of finding cancer earlier, which can lead to better treatment outcomes," said Dr. Garrett. "That's why annual screenings are key."

Even though we are still in the midst of the pandemic, the risk of infection while having a mammogram is very low. The National Cancer Institute estimates that delayed diagnoses due to the pandemic could result in 10,000 additional deaths from breast and colorectal cancers in the next 10 years. "Now that we understand more about COVID-19, women are coming in to be screened and that is encouraging to see. With Memorial Hermann's enhanced safety measures, screening is safe to do and the benefits of getting screened and finding cancer sooner far outweigh any risks," said Dr. Garrett.

Nan Garrett, MD
Breast Radiologist

Mammograms and the COVID-19 Vaccine

Women are advised to wait 4 to 6 weeks after their final dose of the COVID-19 vaccine before having a screening mammogram. Some women experience temporary swelling in the lymph nodes in their armpits after receiving the vaccine. This could cause a "false positive" mammogram result. However, if you are having any breast symptoms, including finding a lump, you should not put off a mammogram and should contact your provider immediately.

Schedule today.

One lesson we have learned from the pandemic is the importance of health. It's time to take care of yours, and scheduling your annual screening mammogram is a great way to stay healthy. Memorial Hermann offers a wide range of appointment times and convenient online scheduling for all locations across Greater Houston.

Senate Avenue Brewing Co.

Jersey Village couple runs nanobrewery for local families

BY EMILY JAROSZEWSKI

Longtime Jersey Village residents Andrew and Michelle Mitcham said they have always valued serving their community.

Soon after graduating from Jersey Village High School, Andrew served as a medic with the 4005 U.S. Army Hospital from 2002-10. He later pursued a career in information technology while Michelle, his wife, built her own career in pediatric therapy.

Andrew began serving on the Jersey Village City Council in 2015 and was elected as the city's mayor in 2019. Although Andrew did not seek re-election after his two-year mayoral term, the Mitchams continue to have a presence in local government: Michelle was elected to the same City Council in May.

When they realized there was a demand for a local brewery in town, the couple set out to meet the demand and opened Senate Avenue Brewing Co. in October 2020. The Mitchams said they wanted a brewery that was close to them and catered to families.

"We would drive all the way to Towne Lake if it was just a place for our kids to play," Michelle said.

They envisioned a multipurpose space where children could play, couples could have date nights and even those who do not drink beer could hang out. Andrew said it became apparent craft beer was a very underserved market in Jersey Village as nanobreweries became increasingly popular in the region.

Senate Avenue Brewing Co. will hold a one-year anniversary celebration Oct. 2, featuring a chili cook-off and cornhole tournament. A new Oktoberfest beer, the Imperial Bavarian Jäger, will also be introduced. The beer is named after Andrew's great-great-grandfather, Charles Heisch, who was a soldier, also known as a Jäger, in the Bavarian army in the 1800s.

In addition to a variety of craft beers, the brewery also serves ciders, seltzers, wine and nonalcoholic beverages. The nanobrewery also has its own kitchen, serving a selection of appetizers, pizzas, sliders and salads. Menu items such as The Senator IPA and The Mayor's Angus Burger recognize public servants across the political spectrum.

The business holds regular events, such as trivia on Wednesdays and live music on Thursdays. The venue can also host celebrations such as graduations, bridal showers and baby showers.

The Mitchams' plans include distributing their beers to local restaurants and bars and potentially expanding the business.

"You get a lot of people through the door; you get to talk to amazing people; you get to have fun," Andrew said. "I want to take a step back for a minute and enjoy it—and enjoy my kids, enjoy my wife and enjoy my friends and make really good beer."

Andrew and Michelle Mitcham opened Senate Avenue Brewing Co. in 2020.

MOST POPULAR BREWS

Senate Avenue Brewing Co. celebrates politicians' work toward "a more perfect union" with unique names for many of its menu items. See the brewery's three most popular beers below.

1 THE SENATOR IPA: A traditional, bright IPA with citra and mosaic hops ($4-$6 draft)

2 SPEAKER SAM RAYBURN PECAN PORTER: A dark beer infused with East Texas pecans that is great for colder weather ($5-$7 draft)

Bao Bros. Bistro

Cy-Fair native highlights Asian fusion flavors at local eatery

Chris Garcia is no stranger to Asian cuisine and cultures, despite his Puerto Rican heritage. He has traveled to Hong Kong, Beijing, Thailand and India to expose himself to new authentic flavors.

“It’s a part of me. ... I love to travel,” he said. “I love the different cultures in the world and to see experiences there.”

Even though he has traveled and lived in multiple places, the Langham Creek High School and Lone Star College-CyFair alumnus said he is a “product of Cy-Fair.”

Garcia opened Bao Bros. Bistro last fall because he saw a lack of diversity in restaurant options in Cy-Fair. The eatery serves Asian fusion dishes such as bao—steamed buns stuffed with various ingredients—salads and teas. Dishes are inspired by Garcia’s executive chef’s Cambodian and Chinese roots.

Garcia said operating a restaurant has been challenging because food prices have gone up, and he has experienced a lot of shortages during the pandemic. Despite these challenges, he said servant leadership is important to him, and he tries to give back in any way he can.

In addition to running the restaurant, Garcia is an active member of the Army National Guard.

Bao Bros. Bistro has partnered with Metta’s Local Eats, a local foodie group that raises funds for Cy-Fair Helping Hands, which is a faith-based nonprofit. Proceeds support the organization’s efforts to fight hunger and homelessness in the region, he said.

“This is my life’s goal boiled down into one sentence: It’s to empower others to achieve their full potential,” Garcia said.

Garcia said new menu items will be added in the future, and he could potentially expand the business. In the meantime, he said he wants to continue working with Cy-Fair Helping Hands and other organizations to support the community.

“I want to make sure we give in areas where it’s needed, and then we can make an impact,” he said.

Financial supporters who helped Chris Garcia open the eatery are listed inside.

Boys and Girls Country

50-year-old nonprofit offers children in crisis housing, hope

Children experiencing behavioral issues, neglect, abuse or whose parents struggle to provide basic needs can find a loving, nurturing home at Boys and Girls Country in Hockley, CEO Vincent Duran said.

“Most of them were coming from an unstable home environment; they were running with the wrong crowd; they were not succeeding in school; and many times, their family is living below the poverty level,” Duran said. “On the streets in Houston, they’re surviving—but here at Boys and Girls Country, they’re thriving.”

The faith-based nonprofit was founded in 1971 and has since served more than 1,600 children. Duran said many of those once at-risk children go on to become leaders among their peers who work in the corporate world or in the oil and gas industry. Others go on to become teachers or entrepreneurs. Some even return to work for Boys and Girls Country, he said.

The property has 11 cottages designed for eight students each and “teaching parents,” married couples and single adults who live on-site full-time and try to make life as normal as possible for the children. Teaching parents prepare meals; attend the children’s sporting events; take them to medical appointments; help with homework; and teach them life skills such as cooking, driving and cleaning laundry, Duran said.

Malcolm Guerra serves as the organization’s director of the college and career program as well as the Boys Community director, but he started out as a teaching parent and alongside his wife helped raise 27 girls over a 10-year period. He recalls reading Bible stories to the younger children every night before bedtime. One night, the oldest student in the house, a 17-year-old, told him she had never had anyone read her a bedtime story as a child.

“So at 17, I read her her first bedtime story. It’s those little moments that I think, ‘God, what a privilege I have to be able to be in this role, to be here for these kids,’” Guerra said. “I think most of our teaching parents feel the same way. They have those little breakthroughs with the kids, and I like to tell people there are little miracles that happen here every day.”

Local nonprofit Boys and Girls Country has helped meet the physical, social, emotional and educational needs of children in crisis for five decades. The children’s home is located in Hockley. (Photos courtesy Boys and Girls Country)

Those breakthroughs may include seeing a student make their first good grade in school, learn to play an instrument, overcome fears or simply feel safe.

Students living at Boys and Girls Country attend Waller ISD, but because many are behind their peers academically when they arrive, Duran said they also have a full-time director of education who helps close that gap. A dedicated director of campus ministry and counseling staff are also available to meet spiritual and emotional needs.

Boys and Girls Country also has a college and career program that continues to support students once they graduate high school and helps them become self-sustaining adults.

“If our kids stay here, we help them to find scholarships; we help them to get their financial aid set up, and then if they come up short, we have donors who help make sure they graduate from college debt free,” Guerra said.

Duran said he hopes to build a new college and career campus to provide housing and other resources to support those students. Officials are also in the process of rebuilding all cottages on the property, which provide each child with their own bedroom, bathroom and closet, Guerra said. Four aging structures have already been replaced, and the fifth rebuild is slated for next year.

Because Boys and Girls Country is privately funded, leadership relies on the generosity of local businesses, churches and individuals to operate and support children whose families are in crisis. Community members can also volunteer their time to work with the students and contribute to campus projects.

“We want the community to know that we are a resource for them, so if there is a family that’s struggling ... because there are some stressors in their home life, we’re here to help them,” Duran said.

“WE WANT THE COMMUNITY TO KNOW THAT WE ARE A RESOURCE FOR THEM, SO IF THERE IS A FAMILY THAT’S STRUGGLING ... BECAUSE THERE ARE SOME STRESSORS IN THEIR HOME LIFE, WE’RE HERE TO HELP THEM.”

Boys and Girls Country has served hundreds of children since launching 50 years ago.

The BIGGER picture

The Carverdale neighborhood was developed in the 1950s and marketed to Black families. Because of its proximity to Hwy. 290 and Beltway 8, it has since been inundated by commercial and industrial businesses.

LAND USE WITHIN 1 MILE OF THE SITE

A land-use analysis included in Waste Management's permit amendment application found nearly half of the area within a mile of the landfill site is dedicated to industrial use. Just 12.5% is residential, according to the report.

The Hawthorn Park Landfill has been in the Carverdale community for decades.

with rats, all kinds of things. And the chemicals from the items ... it does get into the environment."

The landfill accepts construction and demolition material, including concrete, brick, dirt, asphalt, wood, drywall and rock, which environmental experts said could present health hazards to those who live nearby. However, it is not permitted to accept household garbage or trash from commercial businesses.

State agencies encourage the expansion and redevelopment of existing waste sites as opposed to the creation of new facilities, officials said.

More than 250 public comments opposing the plan have been submitted as of late September. Residents expressed concerns about their health, property values, increased traffic and debris, potential water contamination and a lack of transparency from Waste Management.

But Doughty said Waste Management has followed the appropriate steps throughout the process, and she believes many of these concerns are not based on facts.

"There's been a lot of misinformation, and that's our biggest challenge is that [residents] make statements that are not true," she said. "We are held to a very high standard by Harris County Pollution Control, the TCEQ, the [Environmental Protection Agency]. We have random inspections all the time, and if you look at our records, you can tell everything that we've submitted [is] within compliance."

Site plans

The Hawthorn Park Landfill started as a 10-acre site in 1977. It expanded by another 30 acres in the early 1980s and grew again in the mid-'90s to 171.6 acres. Waste Management took ownership in 1996, and the landfill has operated at that size since.

Officials said the proposed expansion would be contained within the existing site boundary. Waste Management would terminate the leases of a concrete recycling company as well as a composting and mulching facility, which have operated on-site since 2006 and 2014, respectively.

"We know that you can't pick up a landfill and move it across town. Because of the technology that you build into the site, you just can't do that," Doughty said. "This facility has the opportunity to use more of the space within the permitted boundary, and we're trying to make the highest and best use of that space."

The site accepted an average of 222,000 tons of waste annually between 2012-16, but Doughty said activity was limited over the last four years while the engineering and analysis for the revised permit was ongoing.

Waste Management estimates the site will receive 150,000 tons and 200,000 tons, respectively, in the first two years of the expansion. That number would grow by 1.2% every subsequent year until capacity is met at about 340,000 tons, according to the permit application.

"[Hawthorn Park Landfill] meets or exceeds the standards for protection of human health and the environment required by law. The TCEQ is currently reviewing the proposed expansion to ensure it complies with all regulatory requirements," Waste Management officials said.

Community considerations

According to a land-use analysis, about 62% of the land within a mile of the site is for industrial and commercial uses while 12.5% is residential space. The radius includes 2,928 households, 331 commercial buildings and 552 industrial buildings.

Carverdale resident Iesheia Ayers-Wilson said increased truck traffic is

NEIGHBORHOOD BY THE NUMBERS

Nearly 3,000 households, more than a dozen churches and several educational facilities and public parks are within a 1-mile radius of the site, located on Tanner Road near Gessner Road.

2,928 households	15 churches
552 industrial buildings	331 commercial buildings
3 public parks	5 education facilities

a concern. A widening of Tanner Road is included in the Houston-Galveston Area Council's 2045 Regional Transportation Plan, although no timeline has been established.

The Texas Department of Transportation reports about 17,000 vehicles travel the stretch of Tanner between Beltway 8 and Gessner Road daily, and Waste Management projects the landfill will contribute about 130 vehicles to that count. Property values in the historically Black neighborhood are also a concern, Ayers-Wilson said.

"What value is it bringing? You bring a landfill to a community, and our property values go down but your property value in your neighborhood is still going up," she said. "It's only in the Black and brown communities. Go put it in River Oaks, Memorial, Spring Branch, Kingwood ... and tell me how they like it."

According to the Houston Association of Realtors, the median appraised value of homes in Carverdale was $90,035 in 2020. Directly northwest of there, Jersey Village's median appraised value was about $240,000.

Anthony D'Souza, policy and research coordinator with the environmental justice nonprofit Air Alliance Houston, said low-income and minority communities tend to face higher risks of environmental hazards because residents lack the resources to adequately advocate against them.

"The health impacts are multiplied because it's not just one facility. ...

It's a variety of polluting facilities all emitting a variety of polluting substances all within very close proximity," he said. "So, you have things like asthma clusters [and] cancer clusters within these minority communities."

Many Carverdale residents were also affected by the propylene tank explosion at Watson Grinding & Manufacturing in January 2020, for instance. The incident damaged homes and other structures near the Hawthorn Park Landfill.

Resident opposition

Calvin Smith, pastor at St. James Missionary Baptist Church, said the landfill and businesses operating on-site produce odor, chemicals and dust.

"It's not like I moved into this neighborhood knowing it's a dump. I've been out here all my life, so [Waste Management] wanting to open a dump next to me, that's not fair to me," Smith said at an Aug. 21 protest.

D'Souza said the dumping of construction and demolition materials can release particulate matter—tiny particles that can have harmful health effects. Exposure over time can contribute to respiratory issues, heart and lung diseases, and can affect lung development in children, he said.

Carverdale resident Pamela Roberson received a letter about the proposed expansion this spring but said many residents were not notified. Waste Management has met all required postings since submitting the application in February, according to the TCEQ, and more than 200 landowners were notified via letters mailed in April. Residents had a town hall meeting with Waste Management soon after.

"We didn't like their response to us. It was like, 'What do y'all want us to do for y'all?' Like to say, 'Can we give y'all something to shut y'all up,' so to speak. And we weren't going for it," Roberson said.

Doughty said Waste Management has a long history in the Carverdale community and has contributed to park beautification efforts, donated school supplies, funded after-school programs and, most recently, hosted a document shredding event at which officials shared about the proposed landfill expansion.

"We know people do not like the landfills in their community, but what I would say is that if you want to have a partner, Waste Management is a good one," she said. "I would challenge any of the residents in the Carverdale area or even at one of my other landfills, if you talk to them about any other commercial businesses and what they do for the community—we try to get very involved and engaged, and we want to be transparent."

Local support

D'Souza said residents looking to keep landfills out of their neighborhoods have few options—partially due to the lack of zoning laws in Houston—but garnering support from elected officials can help.

"The burden of knowing about these permits is largely placed on the residents, and oftentimes by the time residents realize, it's too late because the public participation window is really short," he said.

Houston City Council Member Amy Peck submitted a letter this summer to the TCEQ requesting additional air monitoring and boundary reductions. She also connected residents with state Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, who said residents never wanted the landfill in the first place.

"The state of Texas' leadership, ... going back to every governor I can think of, prides themselves in less regulation than other states, so you kind of get what you ask for if you're not careful," he said.

Harris County Pollution Services expressed concern in a June 2 letter to the TCEQ, recommending the landfill's maximum elevation level not be raised by "the equivalent of a seven-story building" and more gas-monitoring devices be added. Harris County Precinct 4 Commissioner Jack Cagle said while the county does not have jurisdiction of the issue, he has ensured the county health department's involvement, and his office confirmed engineering regulations have been followed.

Erin Livingston, principal planner with the H-GAC, said her organization has no regulatory authority over landfills, but she reviews permit applications to determine if they align with their regional solid waste management plan. Findings are submitted to the TCEQ, but recommendations are not necessarily incorporated into the final decision.

Objectives in the plan include encouraging the expansion of existing sites over new facilities, among other goals. At an Aug. 17 meeting, the H-GAC's board of directors deemed the proposed expansion was consistent with this plan, and officials noted Waste Management's efforts to "minimize the impact to the surrounding residences in several ways."

"It's always hard. Nobody wants a landfill near them," Livingston said. "If we could not have landfills, that would be great, I guess, but that's not the case at this point in time."

PARTICIPATING IN THE PROCESS

Community members can participate in the permitting process via public comments, public hearings and contested case hearings.

SOURCE: TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY/COMMUNITY IMPACT NEWSPAPER

First notice

Once the administrative review is complete, the TCEQ sends the notice of receipt of application to government officials and adjacent landowners. At this point, community members can submit public comments and request public meetings or contested case hearings.

Second notice

Once the technical review is complete and the TCEQ's executive director has made a preliminary decision, a notice will be mailed to stakeholders and anyone who submitted comments. At this point, the public comment period typically lasts 30 days.
